Putting web site management in your hands

IS YOUR COMPANY'S WEB SITE AMONG THE MANY ON THE INTERNET SUFFERING FROM NEGLECT? Hailed as a powerful marketing tool, web sites have often proved too complex, time-consuming and expensive to develop, update and maintain, especially for Hawaii's small and mid-sized companies with limited staff and resources.

Patrick Ahler, President

Empowered Internet Solutions has grown to be Hawaii's largest web solutions provider by empowering more clients to manage their own web sites than any other web design company in the Islands. Touting the most customers in Hawaii, their impressive client list includes Hawaii Community College, Hickam AFB 15th Services Squadron, The Chamber of Commerce of Hawaii, American Lung Association, and many more. "We understand the effort involved in developing and maintaining a professional web presence and have made it our mission to break down the technological barriers enabling companies to stay current and competitive in the Internet marketplace," says Patrick Ahler, president for Empowered, a locally owned and operated company.

Empowered Internet Solutions is the only company in the state to offer the comprehensive, easy-to-use site management software, ZeppOS, the leading innovative web management software specifically designed to empower individuals and businesses of all sizes to take full control of their own web presence. ZeppOS has revolutionized the ease of managing web content, as the first web operating system integrated directly onto a web site.

Changes and updates can be made immediately and directly to your web site...

If you can use MS-Windows®, you can manage your own web site, using ZeppOS web management software. Changes and updates can be made immediately and directly to your web site, without using HTML or a third party editor, says Ahler. A staff secretary or marketing assistant can easily insert new images, documents and media, plus create tables, manage documents and multi-media objects, with additional editor capabilities that go beyond managing text and images.

Empowered is also a premier web designer, providing fresh new designs and top-of-the-line web design expertise to meet client's special needs and tastes.

Customer satisfaction is top priority for Empowered's talented, solutions-oriented staff that stays current with innovations in the industry, is passionate about excellence and continually learns from client challenges and values their feedback. Empowered offers weekly training updates for clients that have grown into valuable networking opportunities, adds Ahler.

"We know that businesses need to focus on their core competencies to keep a competitive edge," says Ahler. "Through our intuitive web site management software, we are committed to helping Hawaii businesses, organizations and associations realize their web site's full potential as a major marketing and sales tool."
